MANIPUR FIRS

grenades. They burnt case papers and also bullet-proof jackets.

While senior officials were not available for comment, the state government and top functionaries have confirmed weapons theft from police armories in the past, and asked police to return them.

Manipur Police, too, have issued regular statements about the number of weapons and ammunition recovered. Earlier this month, the state's security adviser Kuldip Singh told reporters that combing operations would be launched by the army and security forces against those who failed to surrender weapons. And on the final day of his trip to the state, Union home minister Amit Shah had appealed to the people to return weapons to the police.

Manipur minister, L. Surojit Metel, even put up a dropbox outside his home with a note, "Please drop your snatched weapons here."

A central agency should probe these cases. The conviction of police personnel will be unheeded only when an agency from outside probes these cases.

It is indeed true that there are large mobs, but it is also true that many police personnel chose not to act," said a senior security official in the state, requesting anonymity.

The FIRs seen by HT were filed from 10 police station areas across four districts — Imphal West, Imphal East, Thoubal and Kachhing — and dated between May 3 and May 30. From just one police station, mobs looted 811 guns and 77,000 pieces of ammunition, one FIR added. FIR number 94 filed by a commandant of the India Reserve battalion detailed such an attack.

"On May 28, 2023 at around 3pm, I was at my office at 8H, India Reserve Battalion HQ, Khabrisoi. A large number of miscreants/mobs of around 10,000 armed with weapons, catapult and iron rods suddenly surrounded the battalion and stormed the battalion headquarters," the FIR said.

"I alerted all the men and officers of the battalion and then to defend the battalion, the available police officers warned the mob not to enter. However, the mob without listening to the warning started pelting stones and catapulting. To disperse them, the officers resorted to firing of tear gas shells and stun grenades followed by firing of live rounds in the air at 90 degrees," said the statement of the commandant.

The mob finally fled with at least 811 guns such as AK rifles, INSAS LMG, MP5, carbon bayonets and at least 77,060 pieces of ammunition, the FIR added.

A second FIR, numbered 93 and registered at Heingang police station, showed that a second strike happened a little more than an hour later at the police training college four kilometres away.

"Around 4:40pm., 4,000 to 5,000 mob including women folk, some equipped with lethal weapons like AK and SLR attacked the Manipur police training college and overpowered just not the police personnel but also a team of Central Reserve Police Force personnel posted at the gate." Over the next 40 minutes, the mob stole arms and ammunition from the armoury, the FIR added.

In FIR number 54, filed at the Mayang Imphal police station on May 22, it was not a mob that broke the lock of the weapon box but a constable of the same station. The constable — who stole one MP5 gun, 2 magazines and 50 pieces of ammunition — was later arrested.

"He [constable] revealed that he had stolen firearm and ammunition in the intervening night of 20 and 21st May, 2023 by breaking the door of the barrack of the escort personnel of SDDPO, Mayang Imphal...," said the statement of the investigating officer.

The FIR also detailed how the mobs carried weapons such as axe, swords and catapults to storm the premises and overpower the police personnel at the entry gates.

Many of the mobs were thousands strong, the FIRs said, but didn't identify anyone. The strength of the mobs that broke into police stations varied between 200 and 10,000. Security personnel conducting the combing operations said that most people who stole the weapons were residents of the same area.

FIR number 51 filed at Heingang police station showed that on May 28, a mob of around 5,000 men and women stormed the station at 4pm, overpowered the police personnel firing in the area, and robbed the armoury.

At the same time, even as the Heingang station was being robbed, another crowd of 5,000 men and women surrounded the Yatripok police station — roughly 28km away — and entered the police station holding "deadly weapons like sticks, iron rod".

"A large number of people including men and women, about 500 and above rounded the Yatripok police station from different directions and forcibly entered the police station campus holding different weapons like sticks, iron rod etc. All efforts were in vain due to the large number of unruly mob...The unruly mob continued their activities till about 5:30pm," said the FIR.

On May 5, a mob of 2,000-2,500 people entered the Keikol police outpost and burnt case files of at least seven criminal cases, set arms and ammunition on fire when they were unable to break the lock, and also torched three police vehicles and seven motorcycles parked outside the outpost, FIR number 52 added.

The senior security official quoted above said men and women from both communities were using the looted arms and ammunition in attacking villagers. "In some police stations, many police personnel (both tribal and non-tribal groups) had taken leave and did not report for duty. Some of them were also involved in the attack. If a police constable is breaking the lock of his own station, then one can only imagine the lawless on the ground," the official added, requesting anonymity.

Retrieving looted weapons has emerged as the top worry of security personnel, and even elicited an appeal from Union home minister Amit Shah during his four-day visit to the state earlier this month.

Manipur police say that at least 500,000 pieces of ammunition and 3,500 arms were stolen. Of this, police and security agencies have jointly recovered at least 953 weapons and 13,351 pieces of ammunition.

The FIRs accessed by HT showed that mobs took away bullet-proof jackets, helmets and even licenced guns submitted by local residents.

"In most cases, the weapons these militants are using are the ones stolen by the mob. The data of the surrendered weapons or ammunition is very low. The priority right now will be to ensure that the stolen arms and ammunition are recovered at the earliest," said a second security force official, requesting anonymity.

Clashes first broke out on May 3 in Charachandpur town after tribal Kuki groups called for protests against a court-proposed vote to the state's reservation matrix, granting scheduled tribe (ST) status to the majority Meitei community. Violence quickly engulfed the state where ethnic fuel lines run deep, displacing tens of thousands of people who fled burning homes and neighbourhoods into jungles, often across state borders. The authorities clamped a curfew and suspended internet, pumping in additional security forces to force a break in the spiralling clashes. Internet is still not fully back in the state. Former Uttar Pradesh police chief Vikram Singh said the looting of arms and ammunition is a heinous offence and called for action against those responsible for guarding it. "It does not look like the police were prepared to defend the arms and ammunition. In a situation, such as this, those who displaced cowardice and failed to do their duty must be identified. What action has been taken against those whose job was to guard the weapons? The rule of law is supreme. Losing so much ammunition will result in losing confidence among those in the force. Action must be taken," he said.
